A smarter system, Leighton Buzzard

Cyberhomes updated the smart technology system at a stunning, ultra-modern property in Leighton Buzzard, giving the owners a new level of intelligent control.

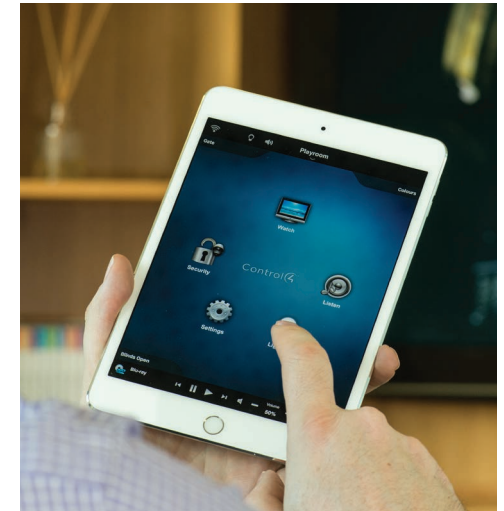

Built in 2011, the award-winning luxury home is a striking example of modernist architecture, set in a beautiful rural landscape.

The property benefited from home automation. However, some elements of the cabling, wiring, connectivity and control system were no longer providing the functionality the homeowners needed. So the family called on Cyberhomes to modernise their smart technology.

We started by testing and certifying all existing wiring and cabling, to check what was fit for purpose, and what needed updating. We then replaced the wiring and rack-room hardware as needed, and installed the very latest Control4 automation system.

We also put in a brand new 4G mobile connection, having identified this as the best broadband solution for the property's rural location.

"Cyberhomes resolved the problems we were having with our previous home automation system. We now have a faster connection, and a smarter system that's neatly integrated into the design of our home."

Cyberhomes carefully integrated the new system into the home's unique interior design, ensuring that cables were no longer exposed, and the rack room was tidier and easier to maintain.

All the walls of this stunning home are floor-to-ceiling glazing; blinds can be operated from any of the touch panels and smartphones.

With the installation in place, the family can now stream TV, movies and music throughout the house. They can also control the lights and blinds, and the AV and security systems, at the touch of a tablet or smartphone. And when away from home, they have the reassurance of remote access to the CCTV cameras and lighting control.

“The team knew exactly what they were doing, and were a pleasure to have around—we’ve recommended Cyberhomes to our friends and neighbours.”
